

KS3 English Language Writing – Whodunnit?

Quickfire Capital Letters

We use a capital letter:

- at the start of a sentence;
- for the pronoun 'I';
- at the beginning of a proper noun (a specific person, place or thing with a name).

Rewrite the following sentences with capital letters:

1. sara saw simon slip slowly into the subway and disappear from sight. she sensed he was sneaking off to spain without her.

---

---

2. 'what do you mean he isn't coming?' asked stuart snappily. 'i told him to be at tesco at 5pm.'

---

3. The security guard in the bookshop looked at jan warily. he had seen him come in on tuesday and again on thursday, but he hadn't been carrying a copy of the bible then.

---

Now, write your own sentences using capital letters correctly. Include at least two of each of the examples in the bullet points above.
